

Internship Position Available: ReUSE Online Materials Exchange Web Designer

5 – 10 hours/week

Starts immediately, through end of Spring Semester 2010

$12/hour

Requirements:

- Undergraduate or graduate student currently enrolled at UC Berkeley

Skills and Abilities required:

- Experience with web design
- Interest in creating attractive and accessible website interfaces
- Ability to work independently
- Ability to also work alongside ReUSE Manager and Assistant Manager to plan and implement website
- Interest in waste management and reduction

Intern responsibilities:

ReUSE is creating an online materials exchange to foster reuse throughout the UC Berkeley community. The web design intern will be responsible for determining the most accessible, interesting, and realistic (given the restraints of time and budget) fashion to implement this exciting new opportunity for Berkeley students, faculty, and staff. The intern must be able to make recommendations regarding the technical workings of the website and be comfortable making decisions regarding the design and aesthetics of the site. The Web Design Intern will be with the materials exchange project from conception to launch at the end of the Spring Semester. Although the Web Design Intern is responsible for the execution of the online exchange, she/he will be meeting regularly with ReUSE staff to discuss the needs and progress of the project.

Background:

ReUSE is a student-run program through Campus Recycling and Refuse Services that implements and maintains a series of services and events for the UC Berkeley community to foster the spirit of reuse- that is, keeping old items from the waste stream and reducing the need for new ones. Visit reuse.berkeley.edu for more information.

Applicants should submit a résumé and letter of interest of one page electronically to reusecontact@berkeley.edu no later than 5 pm on Tuesday, September 15.
