

UC Berkeley

Faculty Sustainability Workshop

Saturday September 23, 2017
Academic Innovation Studio
117 Dwinelle (Level D)

Come and learn how to integrate the concept of sustainability into your courses!

- Brainstorm ideas for including sustainability principles in curricula across campus – from art history to literature to gender studies to environmental science
- Expand the range and definitions of sustainability beyond traditional disciplines
- Leave with creative, concrete ways to help your students explore important sustainability concepts

For registration and more information, visit: <http://sustainability.berkeley.edu/academics-and-learning> or email sustainability@berkeley.edu. Registration deadline: Friday September 8, 2017.

Organizers: Ugo Nwokeji (African American Studies), Céline Pallud (Environmental Science, Policy, and Management), Giuliana Perco (Italian Studies), Mark Spencer (CalTeach), Kira Stoll (Office of Sustainability), Sarick Matzen (Environmental Science, Policy, and Management). Project funded by a grant from The Green Initiative Fund.

